Exporter robbed

Unidentified men barged into the house of an exporter in southeast Delhi and decamped with cash and jewellery worth lakhs after tying the woman in the house. The incident was reported from Sunlight Colony around 10 last night.

Afsana (28) was alone at her house when the robbers entered the house. Her husband Nasir is an exporter and was in his office when the incident took place.

The robbers took Afsana hostage at knifepoint and took keys from her. When she resisted their robbery bid, they tied her to the bed. Later, they decamped with the cash and jewellery.

Schoolgirls attacked with razor, robbed

Two girl students belonging to prestigious Carmel Convent School situated in the Chanakyapuri area of New Delhi district were attacked and severely injured this afternoon with razor by a man who robbed them of their money and jewellery.

The incident took place around 11.30 am outside a photostat shop located in a market behind the school premises. The razor attack was so severe that the injured girls Ritika (17) and Tanvi (16), both students of class XII, had to get 42 and 35 stitches respectively on their upper arms. The robber, a young man in his early twenties, was on a motorcycle and, according to girls, was following them for quite some time in the market.

The two girls who were appearing for their semester exam had come to the market around 11 am to get some study material photocopied. "The girls had a cold drink and after getting the papers photocopied, they were walking towards the school. In the meantime, this man intercepted them and demanded the gold chains and earrings the girls were wearing. Even as Tanvi was taking off her earrings, the man attacked her with a sharp blade attached with a handle and snatched Rs 500 and mobile from Ritika's hand before hitting her with the razor.

Don't mistake phishing site for bank portal

Be careful next time you receive an email seemingly from your bank or say, the income-tax department, asking you to update your personal confidential data online. Check and double check before you give out those information for cyber mafia based in the US and some

European and African countries are on the prowl.

They are masquerading on the internet, using names of various banks, including the Reserve Bank of India (RBI), and government departments. They are angling for your banking information and personal financial details, which might later be misused.

A recent study conducted by internet security giant Symantec has revealed that cyber mafia have changed their modus operandi. They are now targeting people by launching phishing websites in the name of leading banks and financial institutions in India. The month of March alone has seen a 35% rise in the number of phishing attacks on Indian internet users.

Cabbie cons bankers, flees with cash

Police are looking for a 38-year-old taxi driver who hoodwinked two bank employees and escaped with the Rs 1 crore cash they were carrying. Police later found the car abandoned and found Rs 80 lakh still intact in the trunk.

The incident took place at 11.45am near Neelankarai on Tuesday. State Bank of Travancore officials Murugan and Pakkirisamy were assigned to take the cash from their branch in Puducherry and deposit it in the regional office on Anna Salai in Chennai. They hired a car from Balaji travels in Puducherry and got into a Tata Indica (TN 01 AA 5556) and kept the cash in the trunk.

The driver, Muthukumar, had overheard the conversation between the bank officials about the cash. He devised a plan to loot them. He stopped the car abruptly saying it had developed a problem. He got down to look into the 'problem' and asked his passengers to push the car.

Petrol bunk fire causes panic in Hyderabad

A major catastrophe was averted in the State capital on Tuesday when firemen managed to douse the flames that engulfed a petrol bunk in Alwal on Tuesday, even as the State capital reeled under scorching heat with the temperature rising to 45 degrees Celsius. Authorities evacuated residents from apartments in the vicinity, ordered closure of shops and cordoned off the area bringing the traffic on the busy Rajiv Rahadari to a standstill.

Fire tenders from different stations, including the Army and CISF, raced to Alwal to help firemen control the blaze that miraculously did not lead to explosion of the oil storage tank which then contained some 10,000 litres of petrol.

The flames erupted around 6 p.m when a tanker was emptying petrol into the underground storage unit. The blaze soon engulfed the tanker and four two-wheelers left by the customers. Within seconds, two vending units of the bunk too caught fire. Though police did not hazard a guess on what started the blaze, they suspect it could be a cigarette stub or the scorching heat.

All Pune buildings may have to install CCTVs

The February 13 blast at the German Bakery that claimed 17 lives and injured 65 others has had far-reaching effects concerning the city's security.

The Pune Municipal Corporation (PMC) which mooted closed circuit television cameras all over the city in its Budget for 2010-11 is now mulling an amendment in the Development Control (DC) rules which will make such security mandatory for existing and new buildings in the city. A few townships in the city have security gadgets like intercoms and CCTVs.

Ash cloud spreads to N Africa, flights hit in Morocco

Volcanic ash from Iceland wound its way down to North Africa and curled over to Turkey on Tuesday, forcing authorities to shut down Casablanca airport in Morocco as well as airports in Spain and airspace over Turkey.

Five airports in Morocco — Casablanca, Rabat-Sale, Tangiers, Tetouan and Essaouira — were closed on Tuesday "to guarantee a maximum level of security for passengers", the Moroccan civil aviation authorities said.
